

Supplemental digital content 1. Supervised learning algorithms can be used to identify the association between patient clinical, biological and molecular features and mortality in order to predict the outcome in future patients. S = survivors, NS = non-survivors.