Individuals from particular ethnic groups have been historically underrepresented in medicine (UIM) in the United States...

...including in plastic and reconstructive surgery (PRS)

How can we create a more inclusive environment in academic medicine?

Increased representation of UIM faculty in academic PRS can reduce inequalities in access to care, bolster research efforts, and create a more societally reflective cosmetic surgery workforce